STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Parliament enacted the Delimitation Act, 2002 and under its provisions, a Delimitation Commission was set-up to readjust the division of each State and Union territory into territorial constituencies for the purpose of elections to the House of the People and to the State Legislative Assemblies on the basis of 2001 Census. The Delimitation Commission has since completed the delimitation exercise in 25 States/Union territories.

2. As the work of the Delimitation Commission progressed, new issues started coming to the fore and several concerns have been expressed regarding the on going delimitation exercise. The concerns expressed in regard to delimitation are varying in nature. They include issues, such as, shifting of constituencies, making reserved constituencies unreserved or vice versa, migration of people from tribal States to non-tribal States, migration of people in a State from rural areas to urban areas, etc. In the North-East States, even the census figures had been questioned in courts as incomplete and defective. The issues in regard to delimitation of constituencies are serious and very sensitive in nature and they may have impact even on the law and order situation in some parts of the country.

3. In this background, the Government considered the amendments in the Delimitation Act, 2002 with a view to reducing the adverse impact of the delimitation exercise and it was decided that:

(i) new section 10A may be added which should inter alia enable the President to defer delimitation exercise in a State in order to preserve and protect the national unity and integrity or where there is a serious threat to the peace and public order;

(ii) Delimitation Commission's order made with respect to the State of Jharkhand may be nullified and to continue the existing delimitation orders until the year 2026 in respect of that State.

4. In view of the exigencies explained in the preceding paragraphs, it became necessary to promulgate an Ordinance to insert a suitable provision (section 10A) in the Delimitation Act, 2002 for the deferment of the delimitation exercise in the North-East States; and to take care of the situation obtaining in the State of Jharkhand to insert a new section 10B and a proviso to sub-section (4) of section 10 of the Act so as to reduce the adverse impacts of the delimitation.

5. As Parliament was not in session and the President was satisfied with the circumstances which rendered it necessary for her to take immediate action to take care of the situation in the North-East States and the Jharkhand by promulgation of the Delimitation (Amendment) Ordinance, 2008 on the 14th January, 2008.

6. The Delimitation (Amendment) Bill, 2008 seeks to replace the Delimitation (Amendment) Ordinance, 2008.

NEW DELHI;

HANS RAJ BHARDWAJ.

The 21st February, 2008.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 3 of the Bill provides for insertion of new section 10A which empowers the President to make an order for deferment of delimitation exercise in any State, if he is satisfied that a situation has arisen whereby the unity and integrity of India is threatened or there is a serious threat to the peace and public order.

2. The clause empower the Government to assess the situation in the North-East States, namely, Arunachal Pradesh, Assam, Manipur and Nagaland as to whether the conditions prevailing there are conducive for the conduct of delimitation exercise by the Delimitation Commission and enable the Government to take follow-up action, if necessary, by advising the President to defer the delimitation exercise in such States.

3. The order made under the Bill is also required to be laid before Parliament. The delegation of legislative power is, therefore, of a normal character.

(2) Notwithstanding such repeal, anything done or any action taken under the principal Act, as amended by the said Ordinance, shall be deemed to have been done or taken under the corresponding provisions of the principal Act, as amended by this Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Provision of critical basic infrastructure is essential in order to have sustainable economic growth and development of our country. Important projects relating to basic infrastructure require acquisition of land. The only instrument available for acquisition of land for public purpose is the Land Acquisition Act, 1894. The existing provisions under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 are insufficient for completion of such projects on expeditious basis in a time schedule manner due to excessive time taken under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894.

2. There is a need to provide for land acquisition provisions in the Railways Act, 1989 to empower the Central Government in the Ministry of Railways for land acquisition on fast track basis for the special railway projects on the lines of the land acquisition provisions available in the National Highways Act, 1956.

3. It has been the experience that a large number of disputes relating to compensation amount for land acquisition are brought before the courts of law. Often, these cases are pending for a long period of time in the courts and add to the work-load of the courts. Therefore, an expeditious mechanism of arbitration process is provided to resolve the dispute relating to amount of compensation.

4. In order to safeguard the interests of person affected by land acquisition for special railway projects, it is provided in proposed section 20-O of the Bill that the provisions of the Rehabilitation and Resettlement Policy, 2007 shall apply.

5. The amendments in the Railways Act, 1989 shall empower the Central Government in the Ministry of Railways (Railway Administration) for land acquisition for the public purpose by striking a balance between creation of basic critical infrastructure in the country and protecting the interest of the persons whose land is acquired.

6. As Parliament was not in session, and to give impetus to the critical infrastructure projects, it was considered necessary to take immediate action for making suitable provisions in the Railways Act, 1989 by promulgation of the Railways (Amendment) Ordinance, 2008 on the 31st January, 2008.

7. The Railways (Amendment) Bill, 2008 seeks to replace the Railways (Amendment) Ordinance, 2008 to achieve the above objectives.

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

The Bill seeks to provide for separate provisions relating to acquisition of land by amending the Railways Act, 1989, which will empower the Central Government in the Ministry of Railways to acquire land for the special railway projects which are essential for provision of basic infrastructure in the country. Acquisition of land involves payment of compensation to land owners.

2. As per new section 20F of the Bill, the amount of compensation shall be based on market-value of land. In addition to the market-value, the solatium at the rate of sixty per cent. shall, invariably be paid to land owners in consideration of the compulsory nature of acquisition. The provisions of the Rehabilitation and Resettlement Policy, 2007 notified by the Government of India have also been extended to displaced persons as per new section 20-O.

3. The amount of compensation and other expenses relating thereto shall be borne out of the fund sanctioned for the special railway projects. The Bill does not require any budgetary support and thus any expenditure would be a part of the administrative expenditure of the Ministry.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Section 20P of the Bill seeks to empower the Central Government to make rules to carry out the purposes of the Bill. Such rules may, inter alia, provide for the manner of appointment of arbitrator under sub-section (6) of section 20F; the manner in which the amount shall be deposited with the competent authority under sub-sections (1) and (6) of section 20H; and the manner of maintenance and administration of separate fund for the purposes of section 20M.

2. The rules made under the Bill are also required to be laid before each House of Parliament under the provisions of existing section 199 of the Railways Act, 1989. The matters in respect of which rules may be made under the aforesaid provisions of the Bill are matter of procedure and administrative details and it is not practical to provide them in the Bill. The delegation of legislative power is, therefore, of a normal character.

P.D.T. ACHARY,
Secretary-General.
